

Divine Protection Gevurah

- When you feel in need of divine protection, it is good to chant the divine name of Elohim Givur. As you intone the name, let the vibration fill your body and the entire space around you, and let the name fill your mind so that your mind merges completely with the name. When your chant is complete, let your heart pray for divine protection and the grace of the Lord – and so it shall be.
- Alternatively, chant the name, let the vibration of the name fill you and the space around you, and visualize a circle of great fire magically appearing around you, into which no darkness or evil can enter. Envision a burning angel appearing, with a sword of flashing fire in his hands, a guardian of the sacred circle. Wherever you go, the circle of great fire and the burning angel will be with you. When you no longer have need of the burning angel, give praise and thanks to God for divine protection, and pray the holy angel be released from its charge concerning you. If you perform this practice for someone else, simply envision them in the circle rather than yourself.
- In the same way the burning angel is invoked, the archangel Kamael can be invoked when the need for divine protection is great. Chanting the divine name, chant the chant of Kamael (Ah Ya Ko Ma Kamael) and envision the divine image of Kamael magically appearing in the space before you, with his great sword of truth in hand. Pray for divine justice and tikkune in the situation for which you have invoked the great angel and offer the situation up before the Lord in prayer, letting go to the divine will. This invocation is typically performed by initiates in response to greater injustice in the world beyond themselves.
- Equally, one may simply envision the spiritual sun in one's heart and one's whole body transformed into the spiritual sun – a fiery light that transforms everything it touches into itself (the light presence). No evil or darkness can draw near to one who abides as the spiritual sun – the Spirit of Messiah
